THE LATE EMPEROR.—A SKETCH OF HIS LIFE.

Ferdinand Maximilian Joseph, Archduke of Austria, and brother of the reigning Emperor Francis Joseph, was born July 6, 1832, and consequently was nearly thirty-five years of age at the time of his tragic death. Little known even outside of European aristocratic circles, the people of this continent would have taken but slight interest in the career of this Austrian Prince, but for the exciting events which during the last four years, brought Maximilian so prominently before the American public as the Emperor of Mexico. The troubles of that country are of so recent date, and even continuing at this writing, that their successive recital in this instance would be entirely superfluous. As a matter of record, however, it should be stated here that it was under the direction of the French Commander, acting under especial orders of Napoleon, that the Assembly of Mexican notables sent, in 1863, a deputation of their number to offer the Mexican crown to the Archduke Maximilian, then chief in command of the Austrian navy. Their address was presented to him on the 3d of September, 1863, to which he replied on the 3d of the succeeding month, accepting the crown on condition that the people of Mexico should express their willingness to acknowledge him as their Emperor, by giving him a majority of their votes, which should be cast for that purpose. On the 10th of April 1864, Prince Maximilian again received the Mexican deputation at Miramar, and formally accepted the crown of Mexico. Full of hope and determined to raise the fallen fortunes of that unhappy country, Maximilian and his wife Carlotta, daughter of Leopold I., King of Belgium, soon set sail for their new empire, and after a brief interval the little fleet reached Vera Cruz towards the end of May. It was, however, not before the 2d of June that the Emperor formally made his entry into the capital of Mexico. The successes and reverses of the French army; while battling with the numerous bands of dissidents, who never ceased to oppose the new empire, are now matters of history, and would no doubt have culminated in their entire overthrow, but for the withdrawal of these French troops, just at the time when Maximilian, though with a depleted treasury, was doing his utmost to revive trade and commerce, and was applying all his energies to develop various resources which could not have failed in course of time to increase the material welfare of the Mexican people. Abandoned by France—or rather Napoleon—Maximilian bravely, but recklessly, endeavored with his small band of warriors to oppose the constantly increasing Liberal army, until finally, through the treachery of a man named Lopez, whom he had laden with honors, the City of Queretaro, which he was valiantly defending, fell into the hands of Escobedo, and he himself made a prisoner of war, subsequently "tried" by court martial, and, as the telegraph announces, found guilty, and executed on the 19th of June.

MYTHOLOGY FOR CHILDREN.

Rev. George Cox, an English writer, has performed a useful service in the preparation of a "Manual of Mythology for Children." His system of interpretation is very simple and admirably adapted to the comprehension of the young. It is explained by himself very [illegible] and clearly in the following passage:

"So long as men remained in the same place, there was no fear that the words which they spoke would be misunderstood; but as time went on they were scattered, and some wandered to the south, and some to the north and west; and so it came to pass that they kept the names which they gave to the sun and the clouds and all other things, when their meaning had been almost or quite forgotten. In this way they still spoke of Phoebus as loving Daphne, after they had forgotten that this meant only the 'Sun loves the dawn.' So the name of the dew had been Procris, and it had been said that the Sun killed (dried up) the Dew as he rose in the sky; but now Kephalos (Cephalus) became a man, who, without knowing it, killed a woman named Procis, whom he loved. Instead of saying any more that the moon came to see the sun die, they said that Selene came to look on Endymion, or that Antigone soothed Œdipus in his last hour. Instead of saying that the sun was the child of darkness, they said that Phoebus was the son of Leto; and in place of the fairy network of clouds they spoke of the robe which Helios gave to the wise maiden Medea."

He explains still farther: "Men of the primeval times, knowing very little about themselves, and nothing at all of the things which they saw in the world around them, fancied that everything had the same kind of life which they had themselves. In this way they came to think that the sun and stars, the rivers and streams, could see, and feel, and think, and that they shone or moved of their own accord. Thus they spoke of everything as if it were alive, and instead of saying, as we say, that the morning comes before the sunrise, and that the evening twilight follows the sunset, they spoke of the sun as the lover of the dawn or morning, who went before him, as longing to overtake her, and as killing her with his bright rays, which shone like spears. * * So, too, when the sun set, they said that the dawn, with its soft and tender light, had come to soothe her son or her husband in his dying hour."

Cox insists strongly upon the gain to morality and to our estimate of our race obtained by allegorical solution of the mysteries of mythology. The stories which seem coarse or ugly, he says, "are so only because the real meaning of the names has been half forgotten or wholly lost. Œdipus and Perseus, we are told, killed their parents, but it is only because the sun is said to kill the darkness from which it seems to spring. So, again, it was said that the sun was united in the evening to the light from which he rose in the morning; but in the latter story it was said that Œdipus became the husband of his mother Iocaste, and a terrible history was built up on this notion. But, as you see, none of these fearful or disgusting stories were ever made on purpose. No one ever sat down to describe gods or great heroes as doing things which all decent men would be ashamed of. There can scarcely be a greater mistake than to suppose that whole nations were suddenly seized with a strange madness, which drove them to invent all sorts of ridiculous and contemptible tales, and that every nation has at some time or other gone mad in this way."

DUELING IN IRELAND SEVENTY YEARS AGO.—Who could refuse to fight, when it was every gentleman's wish to be able to boast that he had shot his man? There could be no good manners while it was considered a sign of courage and spirit to be quarrelsome. Attorney-Generals and Chief-Justices fought duels, and as for barristers, they were always fighting. Grattan shot a Chancellor of the Exchequer; Curran fought an Attorney-General; and as for Lord Norbury, he fought half a dozen persons, and, as the phrase ran, "shot up into preferment." In these pugnacious times pistols were generally kept at good inns, and the ghastly order used to be, "Pistols for two, breakfast for one." Sword-fights in the streets of Dublin were by no means uncommon. Such an encounter once took place in St. Stephen's Green, between Fighting Fitsgerald and a man about town. They sprung at each other like gamecocks; a crowd collected and a ring was formed. Irishmen appreciate a fight. "For God's sake part them, or they'll kill one another," cried a philanthropist among the bystanders. "No, no," replied a grave man who stood next him; "for Heaven's sake let them fight it out, for then one will be run through and the other hung for murder; so we shall get rid of two pests at the same time."

One of the great duelists in the south of Ireland was a rascal named Hayes, whose nose was remarkable for a huge fleshy wart, at which his adversaries always aimed. A certain man refusing to fight this bully, "Nosey," as he was generally called, forbade his son his presence till he brought him the ear of the offender. With true Albanian readiness, the son executed his commission. Another notorious madman in this way was Pat Power, a fat drunken, red-faced, powerful scoundrel. When he challenged Bob Briscoe, an old boon-companion of his, he showed his lingering friendship for him by shooting off only the top of one ear, and half of one whisker. The fire-eater was always ready to fight a duel for any friend who needed his services. When in England, Pat Power was once or twice insulted in the coffee houses he frequented. Once when supper was served up to him, he found under the covers nothing but potatoes. Power whispered to his servant, and quietly ate the potatoes much to the scornful delight of the jokers. Just as he had finished, his servant re-appeared with two covered dishes, one of which he placed before his master, and one before the Englishman. When the covers were removed, a loaded pistol was seen in each dish. Power, cocking his with an angry click, told his adversary to take up the other, saying that they were at a nice distance for a close shot; and if one fell, he would then give satisfaction to the other. The Englishman instantly fled from the room, and Power then paid the bill, and left the place triumphant. Bryan Maguire was another starking mad duelist. He was a big, burly, cashiered officer, with a bull neck and an elephant's shoulders. His "humor," as Nym would have said, was to stand on a street-crossing, and to jostle into the heaped-up mud any one who dared attempt to pass him. His domestic habits were equally New Zealandish. He seldom rang the bell for the servant but fired at it till it sounded. His wife had such faith in his skill that she was in the habit of holding out a lighted candle for Maguire to snuff with a pistol-bullet at so many paces. This infamous bully used to sit for days at his open window. If any one passed whose manners irritated him, he would fling some rubbish at him. When the passer-by looked up, Bryan would spit in his face, and offer him a loaded pistol and an invitation to an instant duel.—Chambers's Journal.

ABOUT DOGS—THE DIFFERENT VARIETIES.—Few persons are aware of the value and variety of dogs, varying as they do in weight from one hundred and eighty pounds to less than one pound, and in value from five hundred dollars to less than nothing. A description of the different varieties may not be uninteresting. We copy the following "market quotations" from the New York Sun;

"The Siberian bloodhound weighs about 160 pounds, measures 40 inches in girth, and is worth nearly $500.

The St. Bernard dog, which is of a buff or light lead color, is very large and valuable.

The Newfoundland dog, when pure is entirely black, and its pups are worth from $10 to $20.

The shepherd dog, or Scotch colly, is wonderful for its patience, fidelity and bravery. It is worth from $50 to $100.

The English mastiff, a good watch-dog, is worth from $15 to $25.

Of terriers, the black and tan is most admired. It varies in weight from one to twenty-five pounds, and increases in value as it decreases in weight. A member of the bar in this city has one which weighs less than one pound, and is the smallest we have ever seen. It could not be bought for $150. Terriers are often crossed with the Italian greyhound, producing a very delicate but extremely useless dog. The Scotch terrier is the hardiest of dogs, is very courageous, and is worth from $10 to $30.

The Scotch deerhound is the rarest and most valuable of hunting dogs. They are very rare and are owned principally by the nobility of England. They are worth $100 each.

The beagle is the smallest of the hound kind, of superior scent and endurance, and is the best sort of a rabbit hunter.

English greyhounds, the fleetest of dogs, are worth from $25 to $100 each. The Italian greyhound is merely a parlor dog. The pure breed is rare and valuable, a fine one being worth $150.

There is a great variety of pointers, setters and spaniels. The Prince Charles variety is the most valuable of spaniels. He is supposed to have originated in Japan, where a similar breed exists. He has a round head, short nose, long curly ears, large, full eyes, black and tan color, and never weighs over ten pounds. They have been sold at auction in England at $2,000 each.

The coach dog is from Denmark, and is not of much value."

THE New York Christian Observer says of Bishop Thompson's mission to the Pacific Coast, that, circumstances render it important for him to do so, the Bishop will spend the winter on the Pacific Coast, and in that case we hope he will be led to visit the newly acquired Russian possessions. Indeed, he assured us before leaving that, should the way be opened for such a visit, and the prospect of an early opening of that region by the push and success of American enterprise continue to invite it, he will be most ready to make the visit at the very earliest date consistent with his engagements at the conference sessions.

Town talk in New Orleans is busy over a millinery bill of $11,000, run up since January by a leader of the haut ton, one of rare beauty, whose hair is as bright and eyes as sunny as those of any lady in the land, but great expectations have come to naught since the bottom fell out of the First National and Jacob Barker's banks. The young man in the case is a former Pittsburgher, later from Dubuque, an ex-Major General, and incumbent of what promised to be a lucrative office at New Orleans. He can't pay and the milliner has appealed to the courts.

PLAIN TALK.

What is there more honorable in man, when brought before the public, or audience of any kind, than for him to speak his honest convictions? Can he that conceals the true intent and meaning, while speaking of objects or persons, be reverenced or respected? We judge not. The above was brought to our mind last Sunday evening, when Bishop Woolley spoke his mind freely. It would have done those thum-suckers ('alf Gentiles 'alf Mormons) good to have heard him. He knows on which side we are, and, therefore, will honor and respect us, knowing that we have a principle by which we stick. Sorry we can't say the same of some. The Bishop came out frankly and boldly, and declared that he was going to speak to the Saints. He said that he wanted the Saints to stop drinking, lying, stealing, gambling, stay away from horse races, and especially to keep away from a place kept in the 12th Ward. The young lasses received some hints for following street-walkers to that certain place, and said: "What do they do there? Why do they go there? What do they get there—some ice cream?" He was particularly heavy on that race-ground across the Jordan. Said he would rather see the three biggest gambling hells in this city in full blast, than to see that race-ground kept up. For those that went there, went there to gamble, get drunk, and do everything that's bad. Admonished the Saints of his ward to keep away from there in future, and should another instance occur where a Saint visited the race-ground, he would have them tried by the Elders. Had you not better commence then and set an example with the Ty-ee, for we heard several say that he was on the race-ground, either the 4th or the 5th of July. The Bishop hit the nail on the head when he said: "He that is not for us, is against us." On which side of the fence are some of those big dirt-eaters? They have no principles; if they have, they have a very queer way of showing them. Does it not manifest itself in every day life? Do these fence-riders not lick the hands of both Gentiles and Mormons, to see which is the saltiest? He then waxed eloquent and gave those introduction-seeking cusses to understand that he did not want any of them to turn up their noses at him or his wives; and that his daughters were not for them! Hang your heads in shame! Can't you see through a grind stone with a hole in it? Nearly every Sunday you are denounced; still you persist in licking the smooth hands of the chief dignitaries, your muchly honored friends, which, it is said by one or two bankers, we abuse. Woolley is an outspoken member of the Mormon Church; sometimes inclined to be sarcastic and witty, with some irony thrown in: he said he would transact business with every gentleman who treated him decently and acted honorably. That's a good doctrine, Bishop; trade with whom you like, and buy of those that sell cheapest. He is going to look after the 13th Ward, the VEDETTE is in his jurisdiction, and see that things are kept straight. He don't want any more drinking, stealing, gambling, or street-walking, and the Saints will have to look out hereafter. He also said that he was in favor, a year or so ago, of letting Mr. Martin have his billiard saloon open, as he thought the Elders of Israel had more respect for themselves than to go there; but when the City bought it, he was down on it. Sorry we are that the Bishop's time run short, as we would like to have heard his encomiums on that "Big smut machine." He would not have said much good of it we venture to assert. Bishop Woolley confirmed some of the remarks given by Heber C. Kimball in the Bowery, on the Sunday previous. Deny them again, "ye" that are friends to iniquity.

Where is the Telegraph about this time? What are you doing in the corner? Bishop Woolley says that drinking, stealing, gambling and everything that is bad is increasing among the Saints. The Telegraph says, "this people" are pure, without fault, and reach the acme of superiority over the rest of the people in the United States. Are you still conceited enough to believe that there are none so good and virtuous as you are?

Interesting reading matter on every page.

New York, August 2.

The Herald's special says documents have been received which show authoritatively that Maximilian made a formal proposition to Secretary Seward early in January for the transmission through the United States Government to Juarez, offering to retire until the permanency of the empire could be decided by the Mexican people in their own way. Seward, however, declined to entertain the proposition, as he did not recognize the right of Maximilian's agent to represent any portion of the Mexican people.

New York, 3.

A cable dispatch says a telegram from Heart's Content of the 20th ult., reports that the cable of '66 failed that afternoon. It is thought the break was about 50 miles from Heart's Content. The Chairman of the Anglo-American Telegraph says the breakage occurred at a very moderate depth of water, and that the injury would be repaired with great facility, as in the case of the recent accident to the shore end of the same cable. The cable of '65 is in perfect order.

New York, 4.

An Orizaba letter of the 18th gives an account of an enthusiastic reception of Madame Juarez all along the route to the City of Mexico. Juarez is undoubtedly their choice for President. A correspondent of St. Domingo says, Cabriol fell among the people, by actions since his return from a tour in the country. A conference, for the basis of a treaty with Hayti has commenced. Salnave is still the Executive of Hayti.

The monitor Onondaga returned with two feet of water in her hold; she proves to be a bad sea boat.

Mass meetings are being held all over Alabama, under the direction of the Republican Executive Committee. The blacks registered a large majority in the State.

Washington, 4.

Registration commences immediately in South Carolina. The post commanders will be superintendents of registration in their respective districts; also to exercise the general supervising authority looking to the faithful execution of the law, and maintainance of order. There are severe regulations against persons endeavoring to thwart the right of registration.

It is reported in official circles, that should Juarez not be re-elected, he will be sent as Minister to Washington, as a mark of regard to the United States.

At a horse fair in Newburgh, last week, the following animals were sold at the prices annexed: Sharpshooter, stallion, by Volunteer; Alden Goldsmith, $1,525, Supervisor, stallion, by Hambletonian; J. There were about 20 others sold, at prices ranging from $150 to $800.

WASTING HIS SUBSTANCE.—The Marquis of Hastings lost $500,000 on the Derby day. He is the present representative of the Marquis who was Governor General of India from 1812 to 1822, and who was distinguished as a soldier as well as administrator. The present Marquis has probably lost in one day, in betting, as much as his grandfather saved in ten years, while holding the most lucrative post in the gift of the Crown.

In the case of W. E. Cullen vs. the Central American Transit Company, for $6,500 damages sustained by the wrecking of the Golden Rule, on Roncador Reef, tried in the Fifteenth District Court yesterday, the jury awarded damages to the plaintiff in the sum of $1,400.

The new California street Market house was opened last night to the public. The occasion was celebrated by fireworks and illuminations. This is the finest market in the United States, with one or two exceptions.

A. W. McPherson recovered judgement in the Fifteenth District Court yesterday against Edward Jackson Hostler and Thos. Micheal Barnes, for $179,528.50.

POLITICAL INEQUALITIES.—The following, says the Cincinnati Enquirer, are some of the enormous inequalities of our political system, and its practical workings in administration:

Thus, New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio have about ten millions of people and six United States Senators.

The six New England States have three millions of people and twelve United States Senators.

Three thousand millions of dollars' worth of property invested in agricultural, commercial or manufacturing industry is taxed sixty millions of dollars for State and local purposes.

Three thousand millions of dollars invested in Government bonds is exempted from the payment of the sixty millions of dollars, and is not charged one cent.

Twenty-five hundred thousand Republican voters North and South have a hundred and eighty or ninety members of Congress.

Thirty-five hundred thousand Democratic and Conservative voters North and South have now about fifty members in the Congress of the United States.

As the Radicals are engaged in the work of remedying what they call political inequalities, we throw these out for their consideration.

KNOW THY DESTINY.

MADAME E. F. THORNTON, the great English Astrologist, Clairvoyant and Psychometrician, who has astonished the scientific classes of the Old World, has now located herself at Hudson, N. Y. Madame Thornton possesses such wonderful powers of second sight, as to enable her to impart knowledge of the greatest importance to the single or married of either sex. While in a state of trance she delineates the very features of the person you are to marry, and by the aid of an instrument of intense power, known as the Psychomotrope, guarantees to produce a life-like picture of the future husband or wife of the applicant, together with the date of marriage, position in life, leading traits of character, &c. This is no humbug, as thousands of testimonials can assert. She will send when desired a certified certificate or written guarantee that the picture is what it purports to be. By inclosing a small lock of hair and stating place of birth, age, disposition and complexion, and inclosing fifty cents and stamped envelope addressed to yourself, you will receive the picture and desired information by return mail. ☞ A YOUNG LADY returning to her country home, after a sojourn of a few months in the City, was hardly recognized by her friends. In place of a coarse, rustic, flushed face, she had a soft, ruby complexion of almost marble smoothness, and instead of twenty-three she really appeared but eighteen. Upon inquiry as to the cause of so great a change, she plainly told them that she used the Circassian Balm, and considered it an invaluable acquisition to any Lady's toilet. By its use any Lady or Gentleman can improve their personal appearance an hundred fold. It is simple in its combination, as Nature herself is simple, yet unsurpassed in its efficacy in drawing impurities from, also healing, cleansing and beautifying the skin and complexion. By its direct action on the cuticle it draws from it all its impurities, kindly healing the same, and leaving the surface as Nature intended it should be, clear, soft, smooth and beautiful. ## The Daily Union Vedette.

C. J. HAZARD, General Agent for the VEDETTE.

Daily Advertisements inserted in the Weekly edition with only one-half additional rates of the Daily.

Business Notices inserted in the Local column will be charged at fifty cents a line each insertion.

A Square consists of ten lines of type of this size.

Advertisements inserted "till forbid" (tf) will be continued until ordered out, in every instance, and charged for accordingly.

Regular or half yearly advertisers will be allowed to change at pleasure, with only the additional charge of composition.

Transient advertisements must be paid in advance, to insure insertion.

Marriages, Births and Deaths are published in this paper free of charge.

Debts contracted without an order from Mr. C. J. Hazard will not be considered by the VEDETTE.

ARRIVED.—Col. Kahn and lady arrived here on Sunday from Montana.

RED DOGS.—Rumor says the Indians made an attack on Green River Station, killed five men and cut the ferry rope. Oh! the poor Indian.

BALL.—All who take pleasure in "tripping the light fantastic toe" will please observe advertisement of Ball at the Idaho Restaurant.

READ IT.—Sam. Lesser & Bro. have newly refitted their store so as to display their goods in good style. They have received a large stock of goods from the East last week. Give them a call after reading their ad. in another column.

JEHU!—We have seen enough of them. Did you, kind readers, look at the heavens yesterday? If you did, you saw what we did. It would make a man shake in his boots if he had a family to support to see so many grasshoppers all at once, on the wing.

THAT DOGG.—Who killed that purp and left him lying opposite the Post Office. Take him away from there, somebody, for the editor of the Telegraph might pass there and have his delicate nasal organs effected, and then he would have another column midnight obituary on the strength of the defunct carcass of the canine.

"H—L BENT FOR ELECTION!"—The great election took place yesterday. No fights, as heard from. We didn't vote; not we. "Whar's the use?" we would like to know. The State ticket is elected, hurrah! Chime in "treason mill." Let's hear of your great majority; everybody voted himself, to be sure. None of your exaggerating, "nurse."

BLOW.—The wind took a sudden freak on Sunday evening, and those of the feminine gender who were out promenading, had their crinoline tossed about in a manner that displayed pretty ankles in profusion, and the encircled forms had about as much control over their "fixins" as a ship has in a gale at sea. The confounded dust flying into our eyes, made us give up our looking at white stockings.

THEATRICAL.—Quite a crowded house greeted the Langrishe troupe on last Saturday evening. Mr. and Miss Couldock's playing was very good, 'tis said, not being present ourselves the early part of the evening. The farce went off well. Mr. Martin played the character of a jealous husband right up to the handle. Salt Lake players are put in the shade beside him in such characters. Mr. and Mrs. Langrishe did very well.

"I have been there and still would go."

MR. EDITOR OF THE VEDETTE:—To the Mountain Lake of Big Cottonwood you are gone, are ye? Well, tho' I am neither you, nor one of your many wide-awake and fearless locals, I'll fill your easy chair for a moment without your knowledge and consent, for ye're not here, d'ye see? Well, the yarn hurries to get out, afore ye return wi your fish story. The aristocracy returned all pleased; enjoyed themselves much. Our honored Governor and the aged matron, who honored the ladies with her presence, all declare they must go again. All were merry, jovial, innocent and free,—they that slept on the buffalo robes, as those who took their feather beds. Mr. E., I am not laughing at you. The Plebians are now off; we wish we were one of them. John backs out, for his mules turned their noses up and their tales to the lake, rather than not be considered fit society for the animals that took the other company. But leaving the mules on the backward track, say! did any one rehearse to you the words of the "Dali Prophet," uttered up there the 24th of July, 1857—over ten years ago? "I shall be President of the United States in ten years, or have the power to say who shall be!" Unfulfilled. If you heard of this up there, I think I see your jovial sides in motion; your hat in the air, and you rolling in ecstacy on the grass, while the fish are being cooked. Thinking you will return early and in good appetite, I am your devoted admirer. A MAN "TO HUM."

Salt Lake City, August 4, 1867.

A New Jersey paper thus pleasantly describes the rolling stock of street railroads in a city of that State thus:

"The cars themselves are simply exaggerated sardine boxes, placed on what the spinal column of any passenger must consider triangular wheels. The windows, which are shut, will not open; while those that are down, a Sampson could not raise. There are no springs to the running-gear, and the tracks have one thousand bounces, or jolting places to the mile."

BIG NUGGET.—A gang of Chinamen working near Kanaka Flat, recently found a chunk of gold weighing forty-five pounds. The strike was kept secret until the gang was well on its way to China. Many large pieces of gold have been found in the diggings in that vicinity.—Ex.

Wit and Wisdom.

The editor of an Iowa paper recently dined with seven women whose united ages amounted to 484 years.

"Sambo, where did you suffer most in de war?"

"In defeat, to be sure."

Sidney Smith being ill, his physician advised him to "take a little gentle exercise on an empty stomach." "Upon whose?" said he.

It's rather remarkable that while several thousand feet are required to make one rood, a single foot, properly applied, is often sufficient to make one civil.

The Pittsburgers are discussing the best methods of relieving their ice from its strong taste of petroleum—an indesirable ingredient in cooling drinks just now.

Sir John Pakington asks Parliament to pay £63 000 for billiard tables for the use of the officers of the army. The British papers recalcitrate against it. They say it is unprecedented and absurd.

Poor.—There is a region in Oxford county, in the State of Maine, which is so poor that a single grasshopper might look over ten acres of it and weep tears of sorrow.

An insurance agent, urging a citizen to get his life insured, said, "Get your life insured for ten thousand, and then, if you die next week, the widow's heart will sing for joy."

A priest asked a tipsy fellow, leaning against a fence, where he expected to go when he died. "If I can't get along any better then I do now," said he, "I can't go anywhere."

A young girl was one day asked: "Do tell me why it is Cupid continues so long after the invention of powder to use arrows?" "To avoid the report of fire arms, which would attract the jealous," was the reply.

A Protest.—Some of the girls have remonstrated against a patent being issued for the fastening of buttons on clothes by a screw, declaring that if the men can put on their own buttons they will never get married.

"Don't be afeer making fun of the birds," said a newly imported Hibernian to a lad whom he discovered annoying a land terrapin with a bullrush: "how do you know but he has blessed fine feathers under his overcoat?"

A Berks County (Pennsylvania) preacher, discoursing on Danial in the lion's den, said: "An' ther he sot all night long a lookin' at the show for nothin', and it didn't cost him nary a cent."

A sharp talking lady was reproved by her husband, who requested her to keep her tongue in her mouth. "My dear," responded the wife, "it is against the law to carry concealed weapons."

In Litchfield, Conn., on Sunday week, Captain Selmon Buel celebrated his one hundredth birthday by attending the Congregational church, the congregation rising as he came in, and the choir singing "One Hundred."

Horace Greeley says: "I predict that the child is born who will walk dry-shod across what is now the American Fall to Goat Island and back." The World thinks even this feat would excite less comment than Mr. Greeley's famous performance at Niagara in 1864.

"Do you believe in the appearance of spirits, father?" asked a rather fast young man of his indulgent sire. "No, Tom, but I believe in their disappearance, since I missed my bottle of Bourbon last night," said the old gentleman.

Brigham Young has been obliged to spur up the "saints" quite frequently of late to build their temple. They seem to have got rather tired of tithes and taxes for the support and extension of the Church.—Ex

"I don't like to patronize this line," said a culprit, to the hangman, who was adjusting the noose around his neck.

"Oh, never mind this once," replied the hangman; "it will soon suspend its operation."

The Sultan, in order to have a sufficiency of wives, so he will not run out of them before he gets back, takes thirty with him on his trip to Paris. Brigham should go now to Paris and eclipse "Old Mushtapha," by taking a few more.

The Shakers.—The New London (Conn.) Shakers have recently lost a number of their younger members of both sexes by desertion, and one night lately a party of young fellows forcibly carried off one of the young sisters from the flock.

A correspondent in Paris writes that M. de Lamartine is exceedingly ill. He holds no receptions, and never leaves his bed except to take a short drive in a carriage. A photograph taken of him recently represents an old man in whose features it is scarcely possible to detect any trace of the M. de Lamartine familiar to every Parisian. He is now nearly eighty years old.

Speaking of the munificent residence which Ezra Cornell is building at Ithaca, and which is to cost $400,000, a local exchange remarks of the proprietor: "It is only a few years since this distinguished Senator and benefactor raised 'garden sass' for a living, in a gorge of rocks on the shore of Cayuga Lake. Business tact and Morse's telegraph wrought the wonderful change in his fortune, which is now the most colossal in Central New York."

ASTROLOGY.
THE WORLD ASTONISHED
AT THE WONDERFUL REVELATIONS
MADE BY THE GREAT ASTROLOGIST,
Madame H. A. PERRIGGO.

She reveals secrets no mortal ever knew. She restores to happiness those who, from doleful events, catastrophes, crosses in love, loss of relations and friends, loss of money, &c., have become despondent. She brings together those long separated, gives information concerning absent friends or lovers, restores lost or stolen property, tells you the business you are best qualified to pursue and in what you will be most successful, causes speedy marriages and tells you the very day you will marry, gives you the name, likeness and characteristics of the person. She reads your very thoughts, and by her almost supernatural powers unveils the dark and hidden mysteries of the future. From the stars we see in the firmament—the majestic stars that overcome or predominate in the configuration—from the aspects and positions of the planets and the fixed stars in the heavens at the time of birth, she deduces the future destiny of man. Fail not to consult the greatest Astrologist on earth. It costs but a trifle, and you may never again have so favorable an opportunity. Consultation fee, with likeness and all desired information, $1. Parties living at a distance can consult the Madame by mail with equal safety and satisfaction to themselves, as if in person. A full and explicit chart, written out, with all inquiries answered and likeness inclosed, sent by mail on receipt of price above mentioned. The strictest secrecy will be maintained, and all correspondence returned or destroyed. References of the highest order furnished those desiring them. Write plainly the day of the month and year in which you were born, inclosing a small lock of hair. Address,
